You'll find a host of fascinating things to do and see. Following our pictures from centre top, King Mengrai founded Chiang Rai in 1262 A.D. His statue is at the start of the Mae Sai road. The bridge to Burma at Mae Sai is now open to tourists (with a small visa charge). In nearby Chiang Saen, a short hill climb gives a splendid view of where the three Golden Triangle nations meet.

An elephant ride can take you to one of many cascading waterfalls, or past terraced rice paddies. Doi Tung and Doi Mae Salong offer many scenic treats including a floral sculpture garden at the Princess Mother's palace, enchanting country views, exotic hilltribe costumes and culture, and beautiful Buddhist temples.

You may choose to go rafting from Thaton to Chiang Rai - a two or three day trip on the Kok River. Or, cruise the Maekong River from Chiang Khong.
